MUSEUM CRASH

PRESS RELEASE

New website for the CRASH Air War and Resistance Museum '40 -'45.

On Saturday April 7th the old website will be replaced by a new one, which fully meets the wishes and requirements of this time. This release will bring the museum up-to-date. The new website provides information to the 'online' visitor. The URL remains www.crash40-45.nl. our webmaster Rick Franke will be present in the museum on Saturday April 7th.

With this new website, we aim to present the extensive collection and the many possibilities that the museum offers. This billboard is also meant to offer a first glimpse into the museum and also to offer a platform for sharing and requesting information. The new site is also available in English and German, albeit with a smaller content.

Of course, we hope to interest more people for a visit to the museum triggered by this new site. Besides we would like to welcome visitors to the many events and lectures that we present annually. The website offers historical information in addition to information about the exhibitions about the air war, resistance, absconding, secret agents, the radio room and our Spitfire.

With the contact forms on the website, the museum is able to respond quickly. The need to be able to easily ask questions, submit requests and exchange information is met with this functionality.

The website is a dynamic tool and will be expanded in the near future by posting additions so that it becomes an active site with up-to-date information in connection with our Facebook page.

The entrance fee to the museum is € 3.50 for adults, € 1.50 for children aged 6 to 12 years. For children up to 6 years of age, entry is free. The museum, which is located in the Fort at Aalsmeer on the Aalsmeerderdijk 460 in Aalsmeerderbrug The Netherlands, is open on Saturdays from 11 am to 4 pm.

For more information about the collection of the museum and the work of the CRASH Air War and Resistance Museum '40 -'45 please visit the website at www.crash40-45.nl, or visit our Facebook page.
